

Experience

Since September 2006, Jim has been working with DOWNTOWNDALLAS on a variety of transportation, planning and development issues.

Jim retired in August 2006 from the City of Dallas Texas where he had worked since August, 1982.

His last assignment was Assistant Director, Office of Economic Development which involved promoting and coordinating economic development projects downtown.

Previous responsibilities in the City of Dallas have included executive assignments in the departments of: Street Services, Sanitation Services, Code Enforcement Services, Public Works and Transportation, Development Services, and Environmental and Health Services.

Family

Wife and an adult, married daughter.

Education

1975 Master of Public Administration, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas

1971 Bachelor of Arts, Political Science, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas